

Ii ibis

.....
Write ibis here

If you were an ibis,
where would you fly to?

A little bird told me...

When in flight, ibises fly in a 'V' formation which reduces wind resistance for trailing birds. And when the front ibis becomes tired, it falls to the back of the formation and another ibis takes its place at the front.

Perhaps this African proverb is based on the ibis' teamwork:
If you want to go fast, go alone.
If you want to go far, go together.

Can you spot
the letter 'i'
